Shiota Area (Shiotatsu Townscape) 1

Shiotatsu Townscape

(A Preservation District for Groups of Historic Buildings)

Shiotatsu, which was designated a preservation district for group of historic buildings in 2005, is an area that was used as a posting station for the Nagasaki Kaido Trade Road. Running alongside the Nagasaki Kaido Trade Road, there are many thatch, roof white buildings, storehouses temples and shrines.

Shiotatsu Townscape Cultural Exchange Hall

They host events and give tours of the restored homes in the area. The tour guides might be able to give you some useful information that only they would know. You should definitely pay them a visit!

Shiotatsu: Shipping Yard Remains

The Nishioka House and Sugimitsu House

"Shiotatsu" got its name because it was a post town along the Nagasaki Kaido Trade Road and doubled as a port (tsu)as well. The magnificence of the white walled Nishioka and Sugimitsu Houses and even the townhouses spread throughout the town called "Ikuraya"allowing you to feel how prosperous this area once was.

Shida Yaki no Sato Museum

Shida Yaki Resource Center

Shida no Kura

You can find a gallery and the works of many modern potters on display here. There is no fee to enter the building. "Shida no Kura," which was built during the Taisho era (1912-1926) and had been recognized as a modernized industrial heritage site, is fill with general goods and souvenirs that are unique to this region.

Shida Yaki no Sato Museum

In the Shiota area in Ureshino, following Arita, they started to sell porcelin that was made from Amakusa Tosekiin the 1700s. They are actually using the factory that produced the Shida procelain from 3rd year of the Taisho era (1914) up until 59th year of the Showa period (1984)as a museum. Lamp Shade Making and Pottery Making are also popular things you can try.

Christian Persecution Memorial Site

Here, there are monuments that were build in rememberance of the sadness of this period where religious persecution took place. they are dedicated to the memory of Christians and even small children who's lives were taken.

Nabeno Handmade Japanese Paper Studio

(The Nabeno Handmade Japanese Paper Preservation Committee)

The history of paper making in Shiota's Nabeno District began about 350 years ago. It fell out of practice in the mid 60's and was revived again in the year 2000. This studio allows people to come and learn about traditional paper making through demonstrations and even encourages the guest to try their hand at it as well.

Ureshino Area Map

Nagasaki Kaido

The Nagasaki Kaido was a very important road that was used by the Europeans who came to Japan through the only window into Japan, Dejima in Nagasaki, during the Edo period. It also seem that Siebold, Yoshida Shoin and even elephants and camels used this road. Tea and procelain were transported to various regions through the Nagasaki Kaido. Even now along the highway we have "Siebold Hot Spring" that is named after Sibold himself after having visited Ureshino's hot springs. You can also find the last traces of the posting station, "Shiota-tsuTownscape" here. You can walk through the town and get a taste of the history and culture of the area.

Kyushu Olle "Ureshino Course"

The Ureshino course was opened in March, 2014. "Olle" is the name of a treking course that started on Jeju Island in Korea. The beauty of the olle is that the courses vary from the shoreline to the moutains and you can enjoy these sights while walking at your own pace. On the Ureshino course, you can see the vast expanse of the tea fields as you walk, but there are also many other cool spots that you'll experience on the course. Whenever you're in Ureshino, please go out and enjoy the course!
